Project description

Lead architect / interior designer 33,000sq.m for major fit-out for investment bank in Canary Wharf, London. Working closely with the client's corporate design guides, the fit-out sought to enhance the sustainability credentials of the client, whilst delivering a value enhanced product within budget and on programme.

The initial phase was handed over to the client in 2008.

For the same client, Llewelyn Davies are retained to provide architectural support on sustainability design for international projects. This includes a major project in South Africa for a subsidiary of the investment bank where LD has provided architectural input on all aspects of the design and delivery of the project.
